BIS Big Foot and BIS Multi Foot

Easy Assembly on Flat Roofs

Universal System

The installation of pipes or other installations on a flat roof requires a high degree of precision. With the BIS Big Foot and BIS Multi Foot universal roof assembly systems, not only will you work more quickly but you will also avoid any risk of damage and leaks.

BIS Big Foot and BIS Multi Foot are stable plastic panels with a recess for Strut rails (to connect cooling systems, lead-through pipelines, etc.). The system is fantastically suited to the installation of ducts. To attach the BIS Big Foot and BIS Multi Foot, you do not need to drill and you do not need any fixing materials. The panels can be simply positioned on the roof. The weight and design of the overall system creates a stable construction.

BIS Big Foot is square and has an opening to vertically attach Strut rails. The robust plastic panel makes this product incomparable in its suitability to support air conditioning units, gas piping and large-scale air channels, among other things.

BIS Multi Foot is intended for somewhat lighter applications. The Strut rails are fixed horizontally for this. As a result, lighter air conditioning units or several small pipelines can be assembled, among other things.

Incidentally, BIS Big Foot just like BIS Multi Foot is manufactured made out of non-aging and UV-resistant material. The rubber mats, which are available separately, offer additional protection against damage to the roof material and absorb vibrations in the construction. =Walraven/BfC=
