Rapid Installation with Flexible Adjustment to Piping

New fire resistant sleeve from Walraven

Authorized by Fire Retardant Class R 90

Walraven is now launching a new eye-catching fire resistant sleeve on the European market which features numerous technical details. The BIS Pacifyre® MK II is distinguished by especially easy and fast installation.

Similar to a pipe clamp or insulation, the sleeve is simply installed around the pipes and then secured and fixed by straps. For horizontal and vertical running pipes, it can be used with any type of combustible piping. The easy-to-install sleeve has passed rigorous fire safety tests in various countries with top results, and meets the fire retardant class for pipe transitions of R 90 in accordance with EN 1366 part 3 and DIN 4102 part 11.

The sleeve essentially consists of three parts. The exterior carrier, with a length of 205 mm, forms a metal sleeve made of rustproof steel.

The middle layer is made from a high performance intumescent material which foams up in the event of a fire. The third, interior part forms special PUR foam strips that are guaranteed smoke and sound proof.

Additionally, PUR strips ensure that vibrations of the piping systems can be captured, and axial movements of piping is facilitated.

With the development of the BIS Pacifyre® MK II-fire resistant in association with the Henkel Tangit fire protection range and certified fire protection fixing in accordance with LAR, Walraven again impressively underlines its leading position as an "all-round specialist in piping Systems". Walraven is in an ideal position to offer and supply an integrated fire safety plan.
